ANTONIO A. SEDILLOWHY SO SILENT ABOUT FREE
WOOL?

The thoughtful citizen can not fail to have been impressed with the persistent refusal of the Democratic leaders to permit any reference by their speakers in the present campaign to the national tariff policy of their party, especially as it relates to New Mexico's principal industry.

The Herald has had frequent occasion to call attention to the tremendous importance of this issue to our people at the present time. Just entering upon established as we are, and with the eyes of the country centered upon us, it is of the most vital concern that we shall at the beginning pursue a policy which will attract capital and immigration. As the prosperity of the northeast and middle west depend upon wheat and other grains, and that at the south on cotton, so the prosperity of New Mexico depends upon its chief staple wool, which is also the wood industry and认的 representative in the national Democratic organization of corrupt corporate interests. Wool is the man in whose behalf Ross Martin made a frantic appeal to the tallied interests for financial aid, assuring them that they had "always been able to rely on Flood," and that Flood was one of their friends and leaders on the floor of the house of representatives. Yes, but friends, this is the same Flood.

This is a matter that goes deeper than any mere question of partisanship. It is a gross insult to 200,000 people, and a threat to wipe out the entire state. Mr. Flood will find out that he has failed to take into account one very important consideration, and that is the manhood of the citizens of New Mexico.

IN ITS OWN SET.
The Journal-Democrat is caught fast in its own net. The more it speaks for others it is slowly but surely drawing in about it and it is turning this way and that way for an avenue of escape. The point that was for so long a time the chief support of the Democratic administration.

If a single speaker for the Democratic ticket in this campaign has opened his mouth on the tariff question the matter has been kept well concealed. Cheap lying noise of leading Republicans has been plentiful, but some discussion of a governmental principle which is of the utmost importance to the people has been entirely lacking. See the way to a Democratic speaker and he will jump through the window.

There you have the contrast between the two platforms and the two parties. The Republican party, which has consistently stood between the people of the -o and business disaster, announces a position in unequivocal terms, and its representatives on the stump do not hesitate to meet the issue. The Democratic party, whose past record if repeated would mean absolute ruin to New Mexico, adopts an evasive, meaningless declaration for Sheriff reform, and its leaders can do no better than to let us down.

The people of New Mexico who have voted for their prosperity and happiness are not likely to sacrifice their most important industry to satisfy the spite of a few cheap politicians whose only platform is that they built the offices.

MR. FLOOD'S THREAT.

The Herald feels that an analog is that its readers for devoting so much editorial space to Congressmen Flood, for Mr. Flood personally doesn't seem to be worth it but the prominence of the gentleman from Virginia in the ranks of the Democratic party, which happens to be the present to be in control of the national house of representatives, gives to his utterances an importance beyond that which they would otherwise have. For that reason we feel that some attention should be paid to the remarkable speech made by Mr. Flood in Santa Fe last night.

Mr. Flood's speech can not be taken otherwise than as a thinly veiled threat that unless the Democratic ticket is elected in New Mexico this year an effort will be made to prevent President Taft from issuing the proclamation consummating the admission of the state to the Union, and that the house of representatives will declare void the election of a Republican member of that body from this state.

As to the first part of this threat, of course, nobody need have any fear for Mr. Taft has demonstrated on many occasions that he is not only devoted to principles of truth and justice, but that he has unbounded courage and manliness; and we may rest secure in the assurance that no wrong will be perpetrated upon the people of this state through any act of his. But the seating of a member of congress is another and quite a different thing. That is a matter within the control of congress itself, and Mr. Flood and his party happen to be in a position to make good their threat to upset the Republican who is certain to be elected as a representative from this state.

The calumny assumption by Mr. Flood that brands will be perpetrated in the coming election is perhaps the most insulting part of his speech, and is sure to be bitterly resented by citizens of New Mexico without regard to previous party affiliations. The fact that this newcomer, this casual hazard visitor, whose only importance in the world arises from the fact that he happens to be the moment to occupy an office far above his mental and moral stature, is willing to unleash the vile vapors of a few irresponsible liars and blacken the name of a people whose collective honesty and virtue are not surpassed by that of any community in the country, stamps Mr. Flood as the narrow, bigoted demagogue that we have already proclaimed him to be.

And who is Flood? That he should assume this self-righteous attitude and pride of pure politics? Why, Flood is the political sister-cousin-honey of Thomas S. Martin, senior United States senator from Virginia and recognized representative in the national Democratic organization of corrupt corporate interests. Flood is the man in whose behalf Ross Martin made a frantic appeal to the tallied interests for financial aid, assuring them that they had "always been able to rely on Flood," and that Flood was one of their friends and leaders on the floor of the house of representatives. Yes, but friends, this is the same Flood.

This is a matter that goes deeper than any mere question of partisanship. It is a gross insult to 200,000 people, and a threat to wipe out the entire state. Mr. Flood will find out that he has failed to take into account one very important consideration, and that is the manhood of the citizens of New Mexico.

COARSE WORK.
It was to be expected, of course, that the hypocrisy of the small group of bushwhackers who have attempted to set themselves up as upholding all the political righteousness to be found in the Bernallillo county would sooner or later reveal itself, but few had any idea that the revelation would come so soon or with such spectacular flourishes.

The local bushwhackers have made a very bungling mess of it. With "good government" as their slogan, and with the old familiarers of "stop-them" used to conceal their own dishonest motives, common intelligence would have dictated that they preserve their mask of decency for at least a reasonable period in order to keep up the deception until as near election day as possible. But common intelligence and political hypocrisy do not always go together, and so we find that at the first mention of offices the bushwhackers threw all prudence to the winds and started a mad scramble.

It can not do great harm nor any considerable good to the man if it is opposing me even to the few men it supports. Had Mr. McDonald been before the public for a year or so, it is safe to say that the Journal-Democrat would not now be supporting him, because in that brief time it would doubtless have questioned his honesty or have advised him on some score to serve his own selfish ends.

The Journal-Democrat seeks to cover attention upon Mr. Bursum, using falsehood after falsehood in an effort to cover its own awkward position.

I started a falsehood about a year ago, and when the rest facts were put before the public the Journal-Democrat, caught in its own net, was forced to admit that it had lied.

I refuted the Republican administration's claim of well methods. A little crowd of well-off office-holders hopped together for themselves, and a bigger crowd of honest job-hunters trying to turn them away from the trough. Such is the spectacle presented in Bernallillo county voters. It is easy to imagine the sort of "good government" that might be expected if this set of office-gluttons were allowed to fatten themselves on the people.

And these residents, those who know Holm O. Bursum and who know Herbert J. Hagerman intimately and well, know that the charges then made against Holm O. Bursum were untrue and were proven in open court, thereby starting the rapid list of events that culminated in Herbert J. Hagerman being removed summarily from office by President Theodore Roosevelt, the man who had appointed him to that office. And Mr. Roosevelt removed Mr. Hagerman on charges, that if Mr. Hagerman had taken them into court as did Mr. Bursum, could not have been disproven, and this Mr. Hagerman knew so well that he submitted to removal without an effort to clear his record.

Mr. Bursum in this campaign stands openly and honestly on the facts and on the sense of honor and justice of the citizens of New Mexico. He cherishes no illwill toward Mr. Hagerman in the attempt to ruin him nor does he bear malice towards Mr. Hagerman. He has only contempt for those who knew the facts and persisted in an effort to ruin him and for those misled by misrepresentation and deceit he bears no ill will.

He is bigger than his enemies and their methods.

Congressman Flood has evidently despaired of convincing the New Mexico voters of the desirability of the blue shield amendment, as he has switched his line of argument to a threat to steal the state unless the Democratic ticket is elected.

Candidate McDonald's anxiety that the people shall see what he looks like creates the suspicion that the circulation of the Journal-Democrat is another thing that he doesn't take seriously.

There is about us a faint hope of interesting Colonel Roosevelt in the athletic possibilities of bear bag or posse-wants-a-corner, as there is of inducing the Democratic candidates to discuss free and

THE LAW'S DELAYS.
The tedious drag of the McNamara case in Los Angeles, which has been on trial for a week without a single juror having been selected, again calls attention to one of the most serious defects in our jurisdiction.

Aside from its features of sensational interest to newspaper readers, the McNamara case is in no respect different from thousands of other cases which occupy the attention of the courts of the country every day and which are disposed of with little or no delay. It so happens, however, that both the prosecution and the defendant are backed by sufficiently large sums of money to employ able and skilful lawyers, and these lawyers are permitted to take up the time of the court to an extent that fails to prolong the trial beyond that has ever taken place in this or any other country.

Not alone in the expense to the public is a system which permits such delays pernicious. In a trial extending over several months it is almost certain that unimportant issues will be allowed to obscure the real merits of the case, and there is less likelihood that justice will be done than if the case were concluded in the same manner as those of less startling public interest. It is safe to say that at the outside ten days is all that is really needed to try the McNamara case.

In England they do things differently. Witness the Crippen case, the trial of which consumed less than a week. In this country Dr. Crippen would probably just be getting ready to ask for a continuance on the ground of lack of time to prepare his defense, and would be secure in the certainty that no punishment would be meted out to him for at least two or three years. But in England, crime is crime, and the amount of money possessed by the accused or those who are interested in securing his conviction is not allowed to play any part in the length of time consumed in determining his guilt or innocence.

Of course there is no parallel between the Crippen case and the McNamara case beyond the contrast in the length of the two trials. The McNamara may be able to establish their innocence by the most overwhelming evidence, but it is hard to convince the average man that it is necessary to consume several months in order to do it.

GOOD GOVERNMENT.
Good government as defined by the bushwhackers of Bernallillo county means government that provides a good thing for the Democratic job-hunters.

Chairman Jones probably figures it out that any transaction involving upon the report of C. V. Safford, Esq., and upon the exceptions thereto filed by the said plaintiff, Holm O. Bursum, as ex-superintendent of the New Mexico territorial penitentiary and the territory of New Mexico covering the period of his several terms of office, commencing on the 12th day of April, 1899, and extending up to and including the 12th day of April, 1906, and that the said referee has made all findings of facts necessary to show the basis of his report and covers now the territory of New Mexico, by its attorney general, Albert H. Fall, Esq., and comes the said plaintiff, by his attorney, H. M. Dougherty, and a hearing had upon the exceptions filed by the said referee of the said report, and the court being duly advised, it is hereby ordered, adjudged, and decreed that each and all of the said exceptions to the said report be and the same are hereby overruled.

And it further appearing from an examination of the report of the said referee that he has found all books of original entry which were kept during the period that the said Holm O. Bursum was superintendent of the said territorial penitentiary, and that appearing further from the said report that after allowing all just credits and debts that the said referee struck a balance therein and that the territory of New Mexico, the defendant herein, is justly indebted to the said plaintiff, Holm O. Bursum, in the sum of $4,222.56, it further appearing from the said report that the said referee has not attempted to include the receipts and disbursements of any funds, although penitentiary funds, the actual possession of which never came into the hands of the superintendent, particularly the salary fund, the general maintenance fund, the permanent improvement fund, the penitentiary income fund and the school route fund, which were paid to the treasurer and drawn out by warrant by the auditor on vouchers approved by the board of penitentiary commissioners, no part of which funds were handled by the superintendent in cash or its equivalent, except as to those parts of said funds that were drawn as contingent expenses by the superintendent and paid to the credit of convict earnings or expended as contingent funds, and as to all of those funds, except such funds as were drawn as contingent expenses, nothing in this judgment is in any manner to be taken as determining or passing upon the liability, either to the territory or to the United States of America of the plaintiff herein, Holm O. Bursum, or any other person.

Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the report of the said referee, C. V. Safford, Esq., in stating an account, be and the same is hereby ordered in all its parts fully approved and confirmed. And it hereby ordered,

SO THAT THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW

The honest plain facts in the attempt made by Herbert J. Hagerman to ruin Holm O. Bursum, do have and recover of and from the defendant the territory of New Mexico, the full sum of $4,222.56, and that the amount herein adjudged shall be paid out of any funds in the territorial treasury, except interest funds, upon presentation of a certified copy of this judgment.

And these residents, those who know Holm O. Bursum and who know Herbert J. Hagerman intimately and well, know that the charges then made against Holm O. Bursum were untrue and were proven in open court, thereby starting the rapid list of events that culminated in Herbert J. Hagerman being removed summarily from office by President Theodore Roosevelt, the man who had appointed him to that office.

It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed, by the consent of the attorney for the plaintiff and the attorney for the defendant, that C. V. Safford, Esq., for his services in expediting the amounts and for his services as referee, including the expenses of all persons employed by him in assisting therein and all expenses incurred therein, be and is hereby allowed the sum of twelve hundred and no 100 dollars, together with the costs of this cause, and the same are hereby adjudged and decreed against the said defendant, the territory of New Mexico, to be paid to the clerk of this court upon a resolution thereto, which is hereby approved, and a warrant to be issued in the territorial auditor on the territorial general purpose fund, and shall be distributed by the clerk of this court to the said referee after paying the costs herein in the manner as provided by law.

Dated at Silver City, New Mexico, this 21st day of September, A. D. 1911.

FRANK W. PARKER,
Judge of the Alvaro Estrella Court,
ALBERT B. FAJARDO,
Attorney General
Territory of New Mexico, Seventh Judicial District, County of Socorro.

W. D. NEWCOMB, clerk of the Seventh judicial district court of the territory of New Mexico, within and for the county of Socorro, doth certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of judgment and decree signed by the presiding judge, and which remains on record and on file in my office.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court at my office in the city of Socorro, Socorro county, New Mexico, this 21st day of October, A. D. 1911.

Eastern New Mexico Got
Nothing From Santa Fe
Convention But Slap in the Face; Discord is Result.

M'DONALD WILL NOT BE ABLE TO CARRY HIS HOME COUNTY

HERBIE AND GILLIE MEET WITH FROST AT MORA

Deception of Voters in Effort to Work Up a Crowd Failed to Work; Mora Solidly Republican.

Mora, N. M., Oct. 17.—Former Gov. Herbert J. Hagerman and Miguel A. Obregon, together with the party accompanying them on a campaign tour of this part of the state in behalf of the Democratic ticket, spoke in Mora last night.

The situation is rapidly clearing and the Democratic bosses already see defeat staring them in the face. They have at this late date just begun to realize that in disregarding the wishes of the voters in their party and of the rural and small town folk, they have provided the very political hotbed which will fall on November 5.

The prospects for a sweeping Democratic victory were never brighter than at this time.

The same old condition of a split Democratic party, and a united Republican party, presents itself again as in the east. The Republicans are growing strength daily while the Democrats are losing ground every day and losing it directly because of dissension within their own ranks and because of their progressive affiliation.

The situation is rapidly clearing and the Democratic bosses already see defeat staring them in the face. They have at this late date just begun to realize that in disregarding the wishes of the voters in their party and of the rural and small town folk, they have provided the very political hotbed which will fall on November 5.

Accordingly, canners were sent out to cover the countryside and spread the information that the Republican governor of New Mexico, the Rev. James Mora, had come to the city to speak at the convention.

Eastern New Mexico got nothing from the Santa Fe convention but a slap in the face. It did not even get what it asked in the platform and while its delegates in that convention met the Mora delegation and spoke to them.

Mr. McDonald cannot even carry his own county and it may go against him with the minority vote, but the minority will be voting under his name.

Eastern New Mexico got nothing from the Santa Fe convention but a slap in the face. It did not even get what it asked in the platform and while its delegates in that convention met the Mora delegation and spoke to them.

Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered,

and decreed that the report of the Refugee Commission on the

McNamara case, which is the same old gang and the same bosses, they did it with bad grace and they are now bearing from the electorate at home.

The strong Republican counties are putting up their county tickets in harmony, naming good men and cementing their lines. It is the opposite of several of the banner Democratic counties, where there is more discord than there has been in years.

Believing that they had a chance to win a few Democratic houses, well known to the voters from past experience, got together and tried to grab the state, and they did grab it. But they will never forget their rank and file of Democracy as they did the convention. Even the newspaper organ of the Democratic party at Albuquerque has been forced to admit the greeting of enthusiasm given the Democratic nominee for governor, Hon. Holm O. Bur
